AN INVESTIGATION INTO REVERSED SPEECH AND
THE STRANGE REALITY IN WHICH WE ARE NOW CONSCIOUS

REVERSED

INTRODUCTION

Back in the 60's John Lennon made the statement that The Beatles were bigger than Jesus Christ. With that the religious fundamentalists sprang into action. A Crusade was launched against Rock and Roll accusing the musicians and the music as being demoralising, driving youth to sex, drugs and Satan worship. Bob Larson was the first of several rock musicians, turned minister, to join the fray and accusations of back-masking the music with subliminal, often satanic, messages were brought to the foreground on Radio and TV Talk Shows.

This became a money making exercise for the church, complete with T-shirts, buttons, bumper stickers, cassette tapes and videos as well as the encouragement to support crusading ministries on a monthly basis. Although an author by the name of Jacob Aranza published books with titles, Backward Satanic Messages of Rock and Roll Exposed (1982) and More Backward Masking Unmasked (1985), little was actually said or done about the back-masked messages.

One of the first incidences brought to light was that of The Beatles song Rain, released in 1960. This was an accidental reversed section of the song that was included in the final product. John Lennon liked the effect so much that it remained. The band, Pink Floyd, deliberately mocked the idea of back-masking by planting such a message at the end of their song, Good-Bye Blue Sky on their album, Empty Spaces. Played forward the message sounded like gibberish and when reversed it gave the message:

"Congratulations, you have just discovered the secret message. Please send your answer to the old pink, care of the funny farm, Chalfont"

However, when one listens to Led Zeppelin's "Stairway to Heaven" and comes to the lyrics:

"If there's a bustle in your hedgerow don't be alarmed now, it's just a spring-clean for the May green. Yes, there are two paths you can go by, but in the long run there's still time to change the road you're on"

One can reverse this and after acclimatizing the auditory function a little, one can hear the following:

“Oh here’s to my sweet Satan, the one whose little path would make me sad, whose power is Satan. He’ll give those with him 666, there was a little tool-shed where he made us suffer, sad Satan”

In this case the reversal does not come from anything that sounds like gibberish forward but from the actual words that are sung intelligibly. Also, please take note that the above reversal is more than just a word or a phrase, but it is quite a lengthy passage.

Amidst this conjecture in 1984 a minister of the Salvation Army church, looking after a half way house in South Australia decided to find out what was really going on. He wanted to find out whether the phenomenon in question was real, whether it was back-masking or something else. What he found out launched him on a career, during which time he has lectured to many professional groups, including the CIA and the FBI as well as local Police Forces and many therapists in various fields. He named this phenomenon “Reverse Speech” and he, David John Oates became its discoverer. Oates discovered that instead of backward masking, everyone spoke in reverse as part of a normal function of forward speech and that reverse speaking was a function of the deepest part of a human being, even deeper than the sub-conscious mind.

In 1987 Oates released a book on the subject, titled Beyond Backward Masking. This generated interest from therapeutic and investigative fields so he left Australia to live in the USA in 1989 amidst favourable media coverage, including appearances on national Radio and TV shows. Favourable testimonials are published on his Internet Site: <http://www.reversespeech.com> and include such glowing endorsements as the following:

"David John Oates has made one of the great discoveries of all time. He has proven that man's true-Self speaks in reverse. He has documented and developed the art, science and philosophy of Reverse Speech. He is in a class with Thomas Edison, Nicola Tesla, Albert Einstein and Alexander Graham Bell. David John Oates, like Bell, shortly after he invented the telephone, is confronted by many who are excited about his great discovery but are still asking, 'What practical use is it?' I am amazed that anyone would ask such a question. My prediction is that Reverse Speech will revolutionize all aspects of human life. Most importantly, it will help us become truly congruent - saying what we mean and meaning what we say. This is the basis of integrity and real mental health. If anyone deserves world-wide recognition, it's David John Oates. We owe him an enormous debt of gratitude."

Dr. Virgil Chrane, President
Alphabiotics International, 1990.

"As Oates played back some famous speeches, you could hear audible gasps of recognition in the audience ... Think of the fun journalists will have next time a politician says 'Read my lips'."

Dallas Times Herald, June, 1989.

AUSTRALIA

"He can prove that he has discovered the seventh sense, a way to read people's minds ... it's a totally new area (and) the influence of this discovery could be enormous."

Australian People Magazine. Feb., 1988.

In the meantime, his amazing discovery had brought him to the attention of US officials who showed considerable interest, an interest that was suddenly terminated when Oates uncovered a code word used in Operation Desert Storm. This was discovered whilst reversing a speech by the President of the time, George H W Bush. David Oates was immediately asked to keep quiet and subsequent engagements around the USA were cancelled. Already it was becoming apparent that although he had simply wanted an answer to back-masking, Oates had stumbled onto one of the most powerful tools of our time. When he sought to understand the legal implications of what he'd discovered he received this reply:

"I refer to your request for advice on legal implications of Reverse Speech. I have heard your tapes and am personally satisfied that it does clearly exist..... It would seem quite clear that it is open to the police to use tapes to search for reverse communication which may help them with their investigations.....It seems it would have significance to finding out information of a sensitive political, military or industrial nature.... I think it is such a can of worms that it will be dutifully ignored by all and sundry with a desire that you will just go away and hide the research"

James Rossiter, LL.B, G.A., G.D.L.P., Dip Ed. (South Australia)

David Oates continued to develop the therapeutic aspects of reverse speech while winning acclaim from many quarters. Dr. Timothy Pascoe Ph.D.(Cantab), M.B.A. (Harvard), B.E., B.Ec.(Adelaide) had this to say about David Oates in 1989;

"I believe that his work is of the highest importance - breaking entirely new ground and with significant implications for the way we understand and utilize our human capacities for communication. These are large and sweeping statements, however, I speak from personal experience. David has carried out reverse speech sessions with all members of my family. The results have been extremely illuminating and they brushed aside any final vestiges of old-fashioned scepticism, which my engineering and commercial training caused me to carry.

Equally, I have followed his work in association with counsellors in Queensland, where the insights and messages uncovered during therapeutic sessions have been of great benefit.....I am delighted groups in the U.S. are showing enthusiasm for David's work."

In 1995 Oates published his second book on reverse speech and moved to San Diego, setting up a successful therapeutic business in 1996. However, someone in possession of such a powerful tool was not to be left alone. In an Interview with Deborah Lindemann C.H.T. in 1998 he repeated the first of several unfortunate statements;

"Yes. Well, I've had numerous problems. I had a contract on my life in Dallas and my whole family was living in terror for two months before it played itself out. My San Diego home was burned to the ground on April 3rd of 1997. We got a phone call the day beforehand, advising me to basically stop my work and to make sure I got it, there would be a message delivered to me the next day. Well, there was, my home was torched. It's been rather a shock to me to say the least. I'm just a regular Aussie and I came to America with an amazing technology that I felt everyone would be very excited about and its been nothing but an uphill battle ever since."

By this time David Oates had once again become prominent in the media. He was a regular guest on the nationally syndicated Art Bell Radio Show and this had led to further media statements and appearances. He was regularly playing reversals over the air and these reversals were revealing information that would not otherwise become known. As a result the harassment of himself and his family continued and David brought his family back home to Australia in November 1999. He was at that time experiencing severe depression. One of his students reversed his statements at the time and one very emotional reversal sums up his state, "My soul cries out".

Nevertheless, David Oates continued his work in Australia and more bad news was to follow. On the 22nd December 2001 his son, Michael drowned in a lake in unusual circumstances. David spoke little about that. More recently on the 24th June 2005 David's daughter, Symone, fell from a 70 ft balcony, however an ambulance crew was present and their action prevented her death. A healer in the U.S. also assisted and today Symone is alive, with her faculties, studying for a degree.

While David John Oates has been responsible for teaching many students I have heard nobody as outspoken about Reverse Speech as he has been. Today he is moderate in his approach to its application occasionally commenting on well known investigative cases on air and touting its therapeutic benefits. Reversed Speech is, without any doubt in my mind, whatsoever, the most powerful tool discovered in the modern era. The reasons why and the reasons why certain powers do not want it to gain prominence in the public arena will become abundantly evident by the end of this book.

Today, David Oates is reigning in aspects of “Reverse Speech”, a copyright title, (which is why I refer to “Reversed Speech”). Look up his reversals of late and you will not find ones as lengthy as some quoted above. He has withdrawn certain levels of teaching from his training manual, especially where he talks about layered reversals. His explanations to me I consider unsatisfactory as I have been doing my own reversals for years and I can satisfy myself with my own assessment. I thankfully respect what he has accomplished to here while I discard his latest activity. In the end the way of understanding the matter is in the doing of the matter. Your own experimentation will get you started while there is much more to consider in what follows.

Chapter One

THE MIRROR TALKS

Daily, we use verbal interaction to organize our affairs. Our words and the words of others, travel through perception filters that are coated with the accumulated emotions of a lifetime. Each one of us therefore perceives a matter differently.

In my past role as a minister and founder of a private school I travelled internationally as a speaker addressing groups of hundreds and sometimes thousands of people. It was common after such meetings to be approached by individuals who wished to convey their thanks for the message I delivered and occasionally they would comment on segments of what I had to say. On many such occasions I stood amazed by the level of their reflected understanding that indicated they had entirely missed the focus of my address and yet they were pleased with what they thought they had heard.

Talking is such a poor medium for communication – the best we have, maybe, but poor. Little wonder, then, that talking is the cause of much conflict while attempting to resolve conflict. The spoken word too easily marshals unintended emotions and drags them into the foreground of a dispute.

The following are some of the revelations that reversed speech presents. I will be referring to such points during my dealing with major issues later.

The First revelation of Reversed Speech, hereinafter called RS, is that of CONGRUENCY. Too often what we say, and what is really behind it, do not flow along the same pathway. Hidden motives often mask statements and we consciously and subconsciously reserve the right, for whatever reason, to deliver little white lies on certain topics. We all set our own borders for saying it as it is. How often have you met someone who presented the perfect argument but left you feeling doubt about what they said? Their body language revealed a bit, yet more than likely, you were picking up subconsciously on what they were saying from their heart in reverse. I have met one individual who was very intuitive and had a habit of telling people what they actually meant after they had made a statement. He could perform in this manner through feeling the response more than hearing it. All of us have this capability to some extent. RS is capable of teaching us all to become congruent with what comes out of our mouth.

RS already serves rewardingly in some therapeutic fields and good work seems to be ongoing in that sector.

The Second revelation of RS is NO TIME. RS originates in another dimension (realm, sphere). I had followed David Oates's guidelines and rules for reversing for several years, pulling out words and phrases and the occasional sentence that was clear. Then one night I had a different experience.

Late one night I was reversing some audio from a television show. The host had just interviewed the actress, Nicole Kidman who had returned from New Zealand. After obtaining routine reversals I let the thirty second audio continue to loop in reverse, hearing it over and over. After hearing it approximately thirty times, a conversation I had not previously known to be there invaded my sleepy head. In reverse the host was questioning her as to why he could not get hold of her through the internet. She replied that she used to use it but found it inappropriate. He then asked her, again in reverse, "Who are you with, who are you with?" She then responded that he would not be consciously given that information but proceeded to give details in reverse nevertheless.

Neither question had been posed to her in forward speech. The conversation became crystal clear to my hearing. I have since decided to tune into this deeper level of hearing. It now takes me moments as I have trained my auditory function well. The more emotional the audio sample is, the more obvious the reversals are. Yet, if a sample of audio is devoid of emotion, reversals will still exist on a deeper level requiring a greater ability to tune in to hear them clearly. I have since developed the ability to listen to whole conversations in reverse. The forward speech deals with questions then answers and when listening to reversed speech you will again hear questions then answers. This means the reversed answer is contained in the forward speech before the reversed question. That fact can make you dizzy thinking about it until you accept the idea that this must originate in a timeless dimension.

The Third revelation of RS is NO DISTANCE. Experimenters with RS will often become amazed that the person behind the audio they are reversing actually knows, subconsciously, that they are being reversed and who is doing the reversing, sometimes addressing them by name.

On one occasion I was reversing the Prime Minister of Australia, John Howard. I was in a hurry to leave for an appointment and on the last reversal prior to posting the results to other researchers and then leaving, I got this:

"The alarmist reverses and runs. Most would have stashed it but they have me now."

The information I was reversing was crucial to my tying him into his role in world affairs. His subconscious was concerned that I had it and that I was about to reveal it. The above example also tells us something about how timelines work in this physical world. Where there is no time, all events must exist simultaneously. This can be compared to a rolled ball of string. As the string winds around the ball it comes into contact with itself. At the point of contact two bits of the string touch (now there is also no distance between them). Let's say that this represents two separate events (one on each point of the string that touches). These two events could now be stated as being connected in a linear fashion. If the string rolled around the ball once more and came into contact with the very same point again, we could say that there is a third connected linear event.

In real life it may play out like this: I remember meeting with a friend of mine with whom I enjoy talking about metaphysics. We talked for several hours and felt something special at the end of it. In the ensuing months I met this person socially in the company of others. The conversation was very different as company was present. Then, one day I spotted him, alone having a cup of coffee in a café and I had time on my hands so I joined him and before you knew it we had picked up on the metaphysical conversation where we left off months previous. The two conversations about the metaphysical are joined in a linear manner.

So too, the Prime Minister's announcement to the press is connected to my act of dealing with his statements for the purpose of obtaining the hidden truth. In that manner, what he did and what I did came together and it was not unusual, therefore, for him to speak directly to me on this level, as there was neither time nor distance between us during those two separate events. As we travel in linear time along the length of the "string" (in my analogy) it represents the unfolding of time from one moment to the next, yet that string is always touching other bits of itself as it winds around the ball and little do we realise how much every event in our life is connected to other events.

The Fourth revelation of RS is THE COLLECTIVE SUB-CONSCIOUS.

The mind uses whatever sound is available to convey its message from the depths of the human psyche. It will do so in as plain terms as possible but when it is not possible to relate the truth plainly it will resort to metaphorical language. Metaphors are also used to categorize information mentioned, in order to more fully inform us.

I thought I could short-cut my learning what the metaphors meant by purchasing David Oates' Reverse Speech Metaphor Dictionary but I found it somewhat inaccurate. It taught me that one could have a limited mindset in approach to meanings. Many of the words listed as metaphors could really be taken at face value in reversals and many of the true metaphors encountered meant more than indicated by definitions in this dictionary. Oates cites "complementary" usage in reversals as the source of defining what the metaphors mean but a limited mindset may prevent arrival at the true meanings. He says that subsequently resorting to archetypes and historical meanings assisted in the final definitions. I have found this not always the case. Several important examples will be analysed in later chapters.

Nevertheless, these metaphors seem to be used in a similar manner irrespective of the person using them. There is ample evidence that a portion of ourselves exists on a different dimension to this one and in that dimension we are a collective conscious entity. Hence, various audio from different speakers can contain common knowledge about a singular event, even though the individuals may not be connected in any way.

The Fifth revelation of RS is PREDICTION. Because there is no time in the dimension of origin, RS may often predict events that have yet to occur on our timeline. I have on file reversals uttered in the past tense that have yet to occur. Therefore it would be a mistake to link time to events mentioned in reverse unless the event identified and the associated time is already known. One interesting example you can hear is stored on David Oates' site under <sup>(1)</sup>“Musical examples”. It is a section of Paul McCartney's song Band On The Run. The reversal on this section is “Marijuana, marijuana. The law, law will banish us”. Interestingly, a few years after this song was recorded McCartney was prevented entering Japan in the late 70s after marijuana was found in his luggage.

It is important to realise that RS originates in a universe where time and space do not exist. Everything is ‘Now’ and there is inter-connectedness between one and all, not visible in the physical world. Therefore, practising the ability to “tune in” (with your own hearing) is vital and one may have to hear a strip of audio many times before that innate ability is developed. Once it is, subsequent attempts will become progressively easier to perform. A friend who was listening to some of my reversals one day said, “It's a bit like learning to listen to the voices on a VHF radio on a boat or train. At first you can hardly understand a word they say, but as you become attuned to it you can understand everything they say”.

Deeper Anomalies

Once one develops the ability to tune in, there is more to consider. There is the understanding of the metaphors, as mentioned earlier (and in Appendix 1 – Learning to Listen). There is making sense of sentences that may seem back-to-front or have otherwise peculiar syntax. Sometimes - not often – the one sentence may allude to a second topic. To handle these things without too much difficulty does require a good deal of practice. On occasion there can still be the unexpected.

Early in 2006 I became engaged in reversing world leaders and media commentators whilst comparing notes with other researchers. I discovered plans for a world we know little about. Often in the white noise (the electronic space between words), entities with a slightly more electronic timbre to the voice would comment. This is commonly known as evp<sup>(2)</sup> (Electronic Voice Phenomena). Their volume was a lot less than that of my recorded audio and had to be boosted sufficiently to be heard clearly, but they were definitely there. These entities prove to reside in the <sup>(3)</sup>astral realm and are either, individuals who have departed the earth plane and who are now residing in the lower astral, or good and evil entities occupying that realm. They too could be reversed for authenticity of comment. Sometimes they are congruent and re-enforce the information presented and other times their purpose is to endeavour to create fear. I have never allowed them to have a negative impact upon me and I generally ignore them, yet a fellow researcher, Peggy Kane, ex radio and TV host of a variety of programs on the paranormal and who has done more reversing of world leaders and media commentators than anyone else I know, has profitably used evp to obtain worthwhile information.

This experience further affirms the inter-dimensional nature of reversed speech and the practice of listening to it may also assist in the further development of the Pineal gland atop the Thalamus in the area of the mid-brain in a manner of enhancing psychic ability.

The nature of my findings led me to questions about the world I am living in, as never before. For the first time I began to think about the degree of freedom I really possess. How limited am I compared to the potential of my true self? Indeed, what is my true potential? Why do I feel so controlled and limited here? Reversing audio produced authentic audio. I innately felt that my whole experience on this plane of existence may be inauthentic in some way. Was there a secret that would help me understand life as being an experience other than a continuous negotiation of a maze of obstacles and a departure from one conflict only to head for another? I needed those answers that would deliver me a magical dedication to this life that one can only have through a thorough understanding of what this planet I live on is all about. I instinctively knew that reversing speech was but the first crack in a mirror and its very nature pointed to something monumental. As I stepped into this mirror world what I found I was not really ready for.

Chapter Two

LIVING INSIDE THE MIRROR

If you have been around as long as I have you may remember the “Bizarro world” in superman comics during the 60’s. This was a world where bad was good, ugly was beautiful, an alarm clock sent one to sleep and in fact, what could be reversed usually was. The “Bizarro” character was a duplicate of Superman and created by a duplicating ray of the character, Lex Luthor. The character was created by Otto Binder, (I do wonder who or what gave him this idea) a science fiction and UFO book author who went to work for NASA. “Bizarro” lived on a cube planet called Htrae, (“earth” spelt in reverse) and though he bore a resemblance to superman, he lacked real life and was smart enough to barely comprehend. Oddly enough, everyone on “Bizarro World” was a duplicate of everyone on earth. Today, post 9-11, I believe the world we live in is quickly taking on these proportions. Just the idea of being told we have to give up all our liberties in order to remain free is enough to awaken us to this direction yet there is much more.

Education “Dumbs Down”

Since being the founder of a private school on Australia’s Gold Coast in the late 70s I have seen a frustrating change in education reflected in many centres of the globe. I talk to teachers who have left behind teaching because they no longer get support. The students now often control the classrooms, making it difficult for those who want to study. School staff is divided in their approach to the problems. Discipline is impossible in many situations especially where a child is said to have ADHD or some other problem and even physical contact with a school teacher can result in major problems. The student/teacher relationship has been eroded. It is also true that some teachers lack the grip on reality that many of a generation ago showed.

What is taught has no application to facing life and is only directed towards making a living and material once taught in lower classes is now taught in higher institutions. Subject matter often encourages dissention, focusing on minority matters and groups. It is not unusual any longer to spend years at various educational institutions and still come out without the ability to read, write, add and subtract.

The further one progresses the more one has blinkers placed around their perspectives. An innovative or creative thinker is bludgeoned by peers who standardize their approaches to key areas in the community. Overall, there is a control evident that comes from behind the scenes and is designed to keep us deaf, dumb, blind and stupid to many matters.

Medicine Kills

Nowhere is the result of this form of education more evident than in the medical field where the adopted paradigms are those held by the huge Corporations (Drug Companies). The body's immune system is virtually ignored for reasons directly associated with monetary gain. If the immune system is given the glyco-nutrients essential for its proper performance the requirement to treat the effect of disease with specific drugs would almost be terminated, but that is not financially beneficial to the health system.

Therefore we have a system in place that is guaranteed to increasingly complicate ones health while more and more drugs are brought into play as treatment. A close relative of mine recently died of kidney failure due to the twenty different pills and drugs she had to take daily for increasing health complications. She is not alone.

Women are often coaxed into pseudo-birth by caesarean section because they are more easily timed to go in and out of a hospital. Upon admission they are given drugs to bring the birth forward. This often creates distress in the baby about to be born and they are rushed into surgery. The "birth" is often associated with heavy bleeding and results often include infection of the womb with the baby more likely to have breathing difficulties, yet mothers now see it as the "easy option".

Professionals in this field often wake up to what is happening around them but they can do very little. In recent years more and more professionals have become proficient in alternative fields, but that often carries a price for bucking the system. In the book,<sup>(1)</sup> Death By Medicine, several such professionals revolt a little further by publishing facts that obviate the failure of the American Health System. However, the facts and statistics can be approximated globally.

There are many alarming statistics but the most stunning statistic is that the total number of deaths caused by conventional medicine, in the USA alone, is an astounding 783,936 per year. Compare that to the road toll. It is now evident that the American medical system is the leading cause of death and injury in the US.

Justice Increasingly Favours Criminals

Today, we do not have a justice system. It is a legal system. The average person cannot afford to pay for justice. Furthermore, the system has become so complicated that if you do have the money to 'buy in' then you also have the chance of finding your way through to a favourable verdict irrespective of your degree of guilt.

I recently spoke to a barrister who was responsible for the incarceration of several Corporate Executives (a rarity) belonging to a large Corporate Entity in Australia. He told me that the nature of his investigations were so out of the ordinary that he has created a template of his actions that he intends to sell for a lot of money. He also told me that since he started practising as a barrister he has not lost a case. Is it now who you can afford in order to get the result you want? The one with the most money usually wins as they are capable of dragging a case through court endlessly until the other party goes broke.

I am constantly dismayed to read in the newspapers where an individual responsible for a misdemeanour has been jailed while we see criminals given light sentences or get freedom due to technicalities. If one is incarcerated the system is not conducive to rehabilitation anyway. “Justice” and “rehabilitation” are nebulous terms today.

Religion Destroys Spirituality

As well as being the founder of a private school I founded an Independent Church. I did so out of genuine conviction and the desire to assist those around me spiritually. I eventually travelled the world and spoke in a variety of congregations. After several years I confronted one glaring fact. The people around me were not growing spiritually. How could they with the rigid borders I assisted them to place around their thinking? I saw wonderful healing of the body and experienced many spiritual phenomena myself yet things were still not right.

I slowly discovered matters of doctrine I really did not want to deal with. There was a huge discrepancy between the god of the Old Testament and the one Jesus called “Father” and not an explanation to reconcile the two rang true. There were differences in the gospels that were explained to me by “authorities” and it seemed to me one more case of “sleight of hand”. Internally I grew disgruntled within myself and eventually I left the church, while opting to spend increasing time in the outback of Australia mining the opal gemstone. In essence I became a fringe dweller and it was quite a few years before I decided to become again involved with the mainstream society.

During this time I had a chance to research these problematic areas and I realised firstly that religion and spirituality are two different things. With religion one is corralled with a set of basic beliefs whereas a spiritual journey is ongoing and is not concerned as much with what is exterior as what is going on within. Secondly, I discovered that all knowledge is already within us, a fact that the Bible even states, and we merely require to awaken to this knowledge. Today I favour Gnostic literature as it reflects such a path and is not bogged down with ‘sacred cows’.

The clever bit amongst it all is that there are many religions, all containing some truth that will bless your soul, yet all differing doctrinally, one from the other. Under such circumstances the search for truth becomes never-ending. In the forthcoming chapters my discovery of the intelligence behind all that occurs on this physical plane explains why everything is operating as it is, to hold us in confusion, allow us to be manipulated, constantly in conflict and cause us to be without the truth concerning it all.

Making Sense of Opposites

All this begins to make more sense when one listens to the news behind the news. I am not talking about the multitude of conspiracy sites on the Internet. Searching for truth in this manner can become very confusing also and the search becomes a bottomless pit. Ultimately, each one of us requires the innate knowledge that brings peace to our soul irrespective of the nature of the truth to which we awaken. Such awareness for me began when I became serious about reversing commentary from daily news programs. World leaders and media are generally in the habit of putting a spin on information and we are conditioned to accepting their version of what happens daily.

Many of us suspect there is something very wrong in world affairs, but the great majority of us are kept so busy making a living and trying to survive on a daily basis that these matters are secondary. It seems that the search for absolute truth requires more effort than we have time to give to it, however, a simple rule of thumb these days seems to be, "Whatever you see or hear in the news, take the opposite to be true". If the President of the USA tells us how much he wants peace, you know there is more war in the offing. If we are told that Iraq is to have its own democratic government, we know there will never be any such thing. If something, by any chance is followed through as spoken then it is for some ulterior motive.

When I embarked on this endeavour of uncovering the true nature of the world I live in I did not bargain on the results. While I was well aware of the forces of good and evil and recognized evil as the predominant aspect in world affairs, I had no idea of its structure within human affairs apart from writers such as Gary Allen who exposed the conspiratorial side of political actions. However, RS expanded my thinking beyond any of the considerations that I had held to date and so, as a researcher, I hereby report what I found.

Chapter Three

CRACKS IN THE MIRROR

Next time you stand in front of a mirror, consider that you are on the inside looking out. All you see is your own reflection. Ask yourself,

“What’s on the other side?” and “How did I get here?”

If one is prepared to reverse daily comment by key individuals then one will discover a radically different world; a world that in so many ways is the reverse of the one we think we live in. Probably one of the greatest assets of RS is the fact that it originates in a world where the truth cannot be compromised. When you do a reversal on a key figure you get the Truth and you can build on this Truth with subsequent reversals.

I told a friend visiting me from up country that if I recorded his statements on a matter, he could not lie to me. I played a game with him and asked him to give me a couple of statements regarding any woman in his life and I told him that he could tell me anything he wished but I would find the truth. He consented and I recorded several statements about a female called “Taylor”. Upon reversing I obtained the statement, “MaGeesh’s dog is not stressed, I can pick her up”. It turns out Taylor is a gorgeous little kelpie dog belonging to a friend of his. His comic statements nevertheless resulted in the truth coming out.

Political and Media

It is just as easy to obtain the truth about the world we live in, through the reversed statements of key political figures and news commentators. In October 2006 G.W. Bush made a comment about Nth Korea amidst talk that his sanity was being questioned due to a belligerent willingness to engage that country in a conflict that could turn out to be a nuclear war. In forward speech he made the statement:

“The United States remains committed to diplomacy. The United States also reserves all options to defend our friends and our interests in the region against Nth Korea.”

In reverse he admitted that he had said things and was hurt over the talk questioning his sanity:

“Snare, fry net, I said it, I was hurt, there was talk, get sanity”

There is an important metaphor used here - “net” – This is one of the more important metaphors I will be discussing. In this case G.W.Bush is informing us that he did desire to “snare” Korea into a nuclear war and that it would have consequences. More will be said about this in a later chapter.

The Australian PM, John Howard revealed a bigger dimension to this issue. The forward statement was:

“Nobody wants to look at military options. You can’t take them off the table. You never do that. That’s foolish. But nobody really wants to look at that as an option but they are very limited and we are dealing with a.....”

While in reverse I heard:

“The worst, it’s known we know when. It’s like we choose....kill....Kim. Shill. Best as is, they vent eagle. We ask if bomb yet. It’s now whom you lose, damned it.....pardon this, long as they add they pull us.”

This revealed a more precise planning over Nth Korea, one that is designed to play out at a chosen time. For the moment it is best that there is public agitation of the USA by Nth. Korea. It seems that the P.M. of Australia knows about this forward planning but not the timing, though it seems simply to be a matter of choosing the exact time. There are going to be losses not only in terms of the public’s opinion towards the action but mainly a tremendous loss of life if these intents are realised. That is concerning him, though he adds that progressive escalation will draw him and Australians into this catastrophic involvement.

In a world where only truth prevailed, John Howard’s announcement may have gone like this:

“We not only are prepared to take military action but it will almost certainly be nuclear. There already has been advance planning to this effect and if this matter deteriorates we (the US and ourselves) know the best way and the best time to take Kim out as we choose. They are playing into our hands by stirring up the U.S. and I already know I have lost a lot of you over the way we are handling this but the fact is that as this matter gets progressively worse we will be drawn into it”.

As I write, Nancy Pelosi, leader of the Democratic majority in the U.S. Congress has just been elected as the first female Speaker of the House. I recorded snippets of her acceptance speech. She stated:

Within this statement is a reversal:

“Save Iraq and then when I’m powered, sin a bit”

This indicates that her popular stance on Iraq is for the purpose of assisting her until she wields power and then things will change.

Another reversal came from a female voice in the broadcast announcing forward, “....Nancy Pelosi of the State of California is duly elected...” While the voice sounded congratulatory the following reversal tells it another way:

“Today have tabloid snake....”

This statement indicates the nature of her association with the tabloids. It remains to be seen whether she will be portrayed as a political snake or whether this is a reference to her ability to wield the media

Often, commentators, reporters and show hosts add a dimension to the reversals allowing us to hear what they think of everything from the political atmosphere to the celebrities that pass through their hands. When the television host I mentioned in Chapter 2 introduced Nicole Kidman onto his show he said, “The big walk on here while you root for him”. In essence he thought that her appearance on his show was going to enhance his status as a host. Later his mind must have drifted a bit as I obtained a reversal that came from both of them in a question then the answer:

He: “I think of us”

She: “Were you?”

I sent both reversals as an Mp3 file to him so he could hear them forward and in reverse and he let me know in an aside comment in his following show that he had heard them. We both had a laugh over these revelations.

A Baghdad reporter who was first to comment on CNN, after G.W.Bush made his address to the nation regarding the additional 20,000 troops to Iraq, showed us what it meant to her personally as she was embedded with the US troops in the region. In reverse she commented:

“Searchin’ the Arab people, hear a low. He’ll look awful. Baghdad will back it. Mass the troops, now on my own”

She is saying that the Arab response to this action is negative and will bring, in their opinion a new low to the region. Bush will look worse than ever although the Iraqi government will back this move. With this massing of the troops in Iraq something deep inside of her is telling her that she is now on her own in spite of the apparent opposite.

I like Chris Matthews, host of Hardball on MSNBC. He comes across in reverse as a very congruent person. He is the genuine article and that is difficult to find in the media. He interviewed General Tommy Franks about the then Sec. of Defence, Rumsfeld. A number of retired Generals wanted Rumsfeld out of office and yet Franks was in support of him. He came to a part in the interview where he was saying that Rumsfeld should be listening to his Generals and compared it to when you build a house. His example was that you could not just throw up a house no matter how rich you are. You need the help of others. In reverse, however, his response to Franks was scathing:

“The elfs buy a hollow advantage to buy but I’ll be seein’ it reelin’ ya. Use the Lord, bandwagon team, but I’ll bet they now desert you. Say how great the owl is. Hell, is it?”

This is very insightful and “I’ll be seein’ it reelin’ ya” is a prediction. Elf and Owl are metaphors that indicate the level of what is actually going on here. The chapter on The Owl will bring you into the depths of what this book is about. This entity and its servants were behind Rumsfelds action the whole way but Matthews indicates that the factional support experienced by Franks at that time would end up deserting him. Franks’ factional support of Rumsfeld failed and the Sec. of Defence surrendered his office.

Furthermore, this reversal indicates failure on the part of the Powers – the powers behind what is really going on.

Psychics

One of the most amazing examples, affirming the power of RS, came from someone I had known for several years. I met her in the year 2000 after an even more amazing set of circumstances. In September 1999 I was camped alone in the outback of Australia, amongst the opal fields. One night I had a most lucid dream in which I met a young man in his thirties who handed me a chocolate bar with my name stamped in green writing along one corner. He spoke to me and said, “Here, take this. It has your name on it”. Suddenly I awoke. I knew my sub-conscious was letting me in on something. Maybe I would find some opal. I worked until late November and found nothing.

I then returned to the city and realised how much I was in need of capital. I responded to a sales job advertisement in my local paper and rolled up for an interview. As I sat down in front of my prospective employer I couldn’t help recalling my dream, for here was the man I met in that dream. He was sitting before me.

I pulled him aside two nights later and sought a possibly deeper meaning to our coming into contact with one another in this manner. I felt emotionally vulnerable as I recalled my dream to him yet he took it in his stride and as we continued exchanging background information I discovered he was psychic. I had wanted to investigate psychics for some time and I asked him if he would mind. He co-operated readily and we decided to meet regularly on a Friday afternoon for two or more hours. I learned much about his ability in the following months and I was able, in turn, to help him with his diet and ideas that assisted him. I will call this man, Charles. Eventually, Charles introduced me to a female I will call, Jane who he claimed, had even greater ability than himself. I guessed that Jane was around fifty years of age and from the beginning I was deeply impressed with her abilities. She earned a livelihood from reading for others and had been instrumental with helping police in their murder investigations.

I once tested both Charles and Jane together, with what I believe was a successful attempt at solving a 20 year old murder. Much detail was given as to where the body was buried, various signs along the way and details of great accuracy regarding the murderer, even down to the very name of his street and a detailed description of the house in which he lived as well as his personal details. Homicide was called and informed with the details. Of course, psychics phone them every day with something about some case. When I gave them the details of Jane’s already successful assistance, a homicide detective decided to accompany her to the alleged site of the grave.

Jane was the only one of the three of us to go with the police that day and the story she returned with I have yet to really understand. She told us that while the detective was initially cynical about her ability, he was soon convinced and even found the entry to this area years ago. He believed a body was in fact buried at the site but refused to take further action giving the excuse that it would cost a lot of money that they just did not have at the time. This was added to the fact he would have to approach his superior with information from a psychic. The real reason was deeper than that. I am sure for the average person would already find this procedure difficult to believe. I knew that I was probably on the police computer from twenty years prior when I clashed with a State politician during my time in the ministry. I wondered what that might have to do with their unorthodox reasoning.

In the meantime I was so sold on Jane's ability I let her direct my life to an extent. She told me so many things that were true that I listened intently whenever she gave me direction. In more than one instance, when I followed her direction matters came to a halt without the result that she said would occur. It cost me time, effort and money, yet funnily enough I did not think to reverse anyone's speech at the time.

After arriving at the end of my tether in a number of ways I finally decided to reverse her speech. I invited Jane to dinner at my daughter's place, for my daughter is herself naturally very intuitive and I wanted her participation and assessment. After dinner I asked Jane to look into a matter through her psychic gift and I recorded the conversation with her consent. Everything seemed to go well on the night. I took the tape home but for some reason did not immediately get around to reversing the speech. The tape then went missing for a period of eighteen months. Such strange things can happen in my house.

Late in 2006 I wrote a synopsis of what I intended for this book and sent it to a publisher. Another author I know was to meet with the same publisher for lunch one day so I asked my author friend to get a comment from him regarding my planned manuscript. During the telephone conversation I had placed my hand on the surface of the unused bar area in my home and as I talked I noticed that I had placed it on the lost cassette tape. After the call I immediately began to do the reversals I meant to do one and a half years previously.

Immediately I noticed a lack of congruency and the reversals were more in reference to her performance than the information she gave. My author friend returned on the phone a little later, saying that the publisher was indeed wanting my material and that he would be in touch with me. I was now confident about writing this book and I decided I would start immediately. I went back to my computer after the call and did one more reversal of Jane. It stunned me, as it issued forth from a conversation that occurred 18 months prior.

Reversal:

Jane: "Careful, careful." ( She anticipates what is coming)

Me : "Reversal." ( I announce what is coming)

Me : "More reverses in the morph, you tough. Merph, who it was, who was that ? Who was that? Owl. (Jane in background: "There it is"). ( I am aware that ample information is coming. I tell her how tough it has been identifying what is really going on. I detect the presence of an alien being and ask who that is and finally I identify it as an evil entity)

Jane: "Now I'm looking, you're hassled." ( She sees I am upset at this discovery.)

Me : "The laugh's in the morph as to how he's used her. I guessed this." ( The "morph" is the dimension in which both psychic activity and RS originate and I am saying that they who have been using her to manipulate my circumstances are laughing at the scenario. However, I had come to suspect that she was used.)

Jane: “Smart where it got you. We’re now enemies. He’s gone and do it. Sit down with that book. Do I know we’ll be tough....in due course, to hold on down....and he plants in the loss. I missed it, it’s enough.”

( She recognises that this now makes us enemies but then makes a reference to the fact that I am about to sit down and write a book. She also mentions that there will be opposition to my writing it, even so I will do what I can and that it will be enough to get there. She misses the book coming out.)

Me : “No” ( I say that the book is not enough. I want to do more.)

Jane: “It is not long out. Spoken in a chapter of everyone...fitting properly, is it?” (This is a future statement relating to the release of the book where she is indeed mentioned in this chapter. This fully comes to pass with any publication. The “fitting properly, is it?” is amusing. I did have a difficult time deciding where to include this bit about Jane.)

The above example is another one revealing that there is no time and that linear events can still be disconnected by time ( In this case, eighteen months). Also, it can be taken from the above that a lot more is going on most of the time than what we are conscious of in this body.

Be prepared for anything when you reverse speech.

The “owl” is the metaphor describing the collective ruling entity of our planet and is explained in Chapter 5. Genuine psychics have a wonderful ‘gift’, though the information they offer has to be carefully discerned, because the “owl” has control over what information they are given at times. Very few of them understand this conundrum and when they channel an entity it is time to be wary of what follows. I am convinced that evil entities can even impersonate a relative who has passed on, though not always. In either case, psychics cannot be trusted to give personal direction. That is something that every individual must learn to source from within.

Those who channel specific entities fall into the same snare as psychics. Their reversals consistently indicate a very different and misleading agenda that is often behind the very positive and loving message delivered in the forward speech. True spiritual guidance has only one source. Within each and every one of us is that source.

Layering

When speech is reversed it initially sounds like gibberish. In reverse there are many changes in the tone of the voice. Initial clear reversals are due to the listener’s tuning in to one tone so that then a word or phrase may be gleaned in this fashion. Mr. Oates has taught that up to eight different tone changes may occur in a sample of reversed speech. However, the auditory function in each of us can be trained to hear all the tones so that it is possible to flow hearing across all the changes and hear a whole conversation.

I managed this by taking short (30 second) bits of audio at a time, for analysis. Any portion of speech may then be adequately enlarged, visually, on the sound platform. (See Appendix 1 – Learning to Listen) Any word may then be investigated separately. So as not to pre-empt the words coming out, one should start at the right end and work back.

Optimum attention is exercised in this manner, whilst focusing on one word at a time and the reversal is constructed from the end. This is a powerful way of training your auditory faculty to hear everything that is there and this way you will obtain much information. The end result is a conversation with very little gibberish.

This level of ability enables you to get as much as possible from a crucial statement and this level of hearing is the most powerful means of obtaining the truth from the spoken word.

A Project Emerges

It wasn't until early in 2006 that I became heavily involved in the reversing of world leaders and commentators in the media. I was often in contact with other researchers and comparing information and reversals. I learned much about RS during this time but more importantly my thinking on many questions related to my existence on Planet Earth began to round off in many ways. Due to the abundance of information and interaction with others I received answers and as fortune would have it there were one or two confirmations from unconnected areas. Through it all I began to awaken innately.

During my entire life I have been on a spiritual journey. I have never been comfortable here as long back as I can remember and this has pushed me to search for answers. This search has taken me through various belief systems. It was not until I came to this point in my life that I was convinced that I was finally getting somewhere.

A leader of a discussion group in my home town phoned one day and, knowing of my involvement with RS, directed me to listen to an archived radio program on US radio. The show interviewed a researcher who had been doing copious amounts of recording and reversing of world leaders, commentators and similar personalities as well as recording and reversing evp. I listened as she played her reversals over the air and speculated on what was going on behind the scenes of this amazing world in which we live. I eventually contacted her and have held her in the highest regard as a fellow researcher since that moment. My results at the time of contact were scratchy. There were many dots left unconnected but she not only assisted me to connect these dots she also was the source of information that would take me some time to digest.

Chapter Four

PEGGY KANE AND EVP

Peggy Kane's introduction to RS was unorthodox, to say the least. Born and raised in a religious Catholic family with a heavy Irish background, she sought her own sense of identity by embarking on an independent spiritual quest at around 18 years of age. After migrating through Eastern teachings and other disciplines she became involved in researching the UFO phenomenon in the early 90s. Other dimensions and life forms began to enter the scope of her 'big picture'.

Questions began to pose themselves as never before. Were aliens related to angels? Had the human DNA suffered interference and was its current status of operation due to the hand of an extra-terrestrial god? Was there a creative entity responsible for the existence of the Universe and was this entity a different one to the one who created man? As the questions mounted, Peggy's growing involvement included featuring on and hosting a number of radio and television shows investigating the paranormal. In the midst of all this, one question became most insistent. What really happens after we die and pass over to the other side? She recalls the following:

"I remember seeing a program quite a few years ago that showed people using tape recorders around different battlefields and getting tiny voices from the ether. I found that a powerful concept since it seemed a way to verify life after death. Either that or it possibly showed that the energy of the emotions that were experienced in those places remained and that energy was able to impress itself onto tape. Either way, it was very intriguing.

A few years later in the mid 90's, I attended a UFO and paranormal conference in Colorado and sat quite spellbound through a lecture with Mark Macy presenting his work with EVP and ITC or instrumental trans-communication. The lecture included listening to taped voices and seeing spirit images implanted onto computer hard drives. It seemed to me that the spirit people were trying very hard to get through to us regarding their ultimate survival after what we call death

The fear associated with the unknown can be torturous to human beings struggling with life here in the physical world. We want to believe in our survival in some form, but so many are afraid that this is just naïve. Others, who are on a religious path, have the fear that their own loved ones will be damned if they don't convert and see the light of their particular belief system. Still others, who would like to leave a particular religious path, have that nagging fear that they will be damned in the end and so they had better just stay put.

I therefore found myself pondering the possibility of communication with those who had gone on to the other side. After all, they are having an experience that would undoubtedly give them greater insight than those of us stumbling in the dark here in the physical plane.

Being very inexperienced in the techniques of capturing spirit voices, I began to just let the recorder run. I did add some white noise from a radio since I had heard that spirits don't have physical voices and need some noise to create words. Day after day, I would record, put on the headphones and see if I could pick up a tiny voice. It seemed that either no one was speaking or I couldn't hear them if they were. I would usually begin by asking if there was someone who would like to speak to me. I would invite family members, friends, angels, or spirit guides to speak. I would ask my family members they were happy. At one point, after months of what seemed to be just static, I could hear through the headphones, a tiny voice saying, "we're happy". I almost jumped out of my skin. I listened and listened and although it was so tiny as to be almost inaudible, it was there. A few days later, I heard my name in the static. I was on fire to hear better and communicate better.

I joined the organization, AAEVP (American Association of Electronic Voice Phenomena). The chat rooms were filled with people giving and receiving advice and encouragement in their quest for the elusive voices as well as tremendous technical help. They would send their EVP though the Internet and there would be lots of discussion as to just what we being said, who was saying it and how to get the voices clearer."

Peggy acquired an unusual tape recorder that made things a lot easier. Those who taped spirit voices regarded it as the EVP machine. The model was the Panasonic RR DR60 Digital Voice Recorder. Rumour had it that Panasonic discontinued it because it was constantly being returned by the purchasers who claimed that it kept recording 'extraneous' voices on occasions. Meanwhile, Peggy and her friends were desperate to acquire one of these items, and Peggy finally becoming successful when she acquired one from a former researcher. The only thing she still required was a decent sound editing software program. At that time Cool Edit was a commonly used program but her brother in law, a musician, gifted her with the highly recommended Sound Forge. She continues:

"There were times when the DR60 would have a very loud growling voice, almost like a shout, which could be recorded even in a quiet room. The folks on the AAEVP (American Association of Electronic Voice Phenomena) website chat room called the voice, "The angry man", and he seemed to travel to the home of everyone who had the DR60. He certainly got around. No one seemed to know who he was or why he was angry or even what he was yelling, but it was a bit creepy.

He wasn't going to scare me off however. I was determined to reach out to my loved ones on the other side, my spirit guide (whoever that might be) or even a passing angel. I was not interested in any angry ghost. Each time I would start the recording, I would ask for loving and enlightened spirits. With the DR 60, I was getting voices right from the start.

I took the recorder to various places to see who might want to speak. I went down to the Arivaca cemetery and got a spirit man speaking Spanish. He simply said "mi casa". Did he live in the cemetery? At my sister's house, recorded voices called her name and said "it's uncle". This was getting more and more exciting.

Francis Arrives

At this point, I had continued recording in my home and got a clear evp stating, "Tell the others Peggy can hear us". I found myself having a conversation with a spirit person who called himself Francis. He said he was originally from the midlands of Ireland. I asked if he was my spirit guide and if he would be the gatekeeper of my recordings. (I didn't want that angry man coming around!). He stated, "I will be your spirit guide, I will be the gatekeeper". This was just getting better and better!

EVP (electronic voice phenomena) is rarely clear and understanding the conversations with my, ahem, spirit guide, Francis, was always challenging. The voice quality was often growling and indistinct. But he was willing to repeat till I caught the gist of what he was trying to say. I had a million questions, and while he was usually quite cooperative, there were a lot of things he didn't seem to know. But he also had a very funny sense of humor and would whistle and tell jokes. I wanted to know everything about him. I was fascinated.

He told me that he had been sold into indentured service as a 3-year-old child. He sailed to the United States with an older brother Mathew. They went through Cumberland, Maryland and then on to Minnesota to work for the Bradley family. He told me that his last name was Haley. He said I could find his travel papers in the Maryland Archives, and while I contacted them, I just let it go as it involved a lot of paperwork and some money.

His childhood was rotten according to him with lots of work and no loving family life. He told me that he died while being robbed of his money purse on the road. He fell off of his horse and that was the end of him. He was about 33 at the time.

He then lived on the other side with a group of people whom he considered friends. I would speak to them on and off, but Francis was not happy about sharing the recordings. They did use some kind of recording device, as they would pass some item back and forth in order to talk. Francis said that this bit of equipment was quite common over there and lots of people had this device.

I had many friends coming to my home and I would ask Francis if he would contact their loved ones. He was always obliging and invariably, the person's relative or loved one would show up to talk. Why not? I imagined they just travelled by thought and could transport themselves through the ether to speak. That seemed to be how it worked with mediums. The difference was this was a conversation with no middle-man. But, it seemed that a lot of the information and the answers to questions put to these loved ones were inaccurate. Never mind, they had probably forgotten minor Earth details

CHAPTER NOT FINISHED

REVERSED

Chapter Five

“THE OWL” - *Dominance

Probably, the most important metaphor discovered through RS is the “owl” for it gives us great insights into the true controlling entities of this planet. Beliefs and attitudes regarding owls persist amongst people throughout the world. These are generally dismissed as myths among the majority of the populace of most places although they remain widely held by the inhabitants of other countries. (1) Here are some:

Africa, Southern: Zulus know the Owl as the sorcerers' bird.

Arabia: the Owl is a bird of ill omen, the embodiment of evil spirits that carries off children at night.

Aztecs: one of their evil gods wore a Screech Owl on his head.

Celtic: the Owl was a sign of the underworld.

Hawaii: Owls feature in old war chants.

Israel: in Hebrew lore the Owl represents blindness and desolation and is unclean.

Japan: They think the Barn Owl and Horned Owl are demonic. They would nail wooden images of owls to their houses in times of famine or pestilence.

New Zealand: to the Maoris it is an unlucky bird.

Sweden: the Owl is associated with witches.

Illinois: kill an Owl and revenge will be visited upon your family.

In the (2) Oates Reverse Speech Metaphor Dictionary the “owl” metaphor is defined thus:

“OWL : (Structural) see Wisdom, metaphor pair; Owl is knowledge from the conscious mind whereas Wisdom is from the unconscious mind; knowledge that one has reasoned with the intellect; earthly “wisdom”; the part that intellectually reasons and understands. Trance image; an owl”

As with all metaphors it is the weight of evident usage that determines the meaning. In this case as with some others in this dictionary, I disagree with this definition. Some of my reversals could fit into the above definition but others indicate that Mr Oates' definition falls very wide of the mark.

The tortured mind of US Secretary of State, Condoleeza Rice, produced a simple reversal on one occasion, "I'm a owl". The PM of Australia said in reverse, early in 2006, "a raw seeded owl with that" whilst referring to himself after he learned of a plan that would exclude him causing him to miss an important event. He was not high enough on the pecking order to be included. The then US Defence Secretary, Donald Rumsfeld, around the same time, stated in reverse, "Grow with the owl" as he was telling of a series of events to occur and that this would be one of them. Interviewer on US radio, Chris Matthews interviewing Gen. Tommy Franks says in reverse, "The owls get out". The context of the conversation indicated that "the owl" is more associated with a controlling manipulative collective entity behind world affairs and in this way the metaphor fits every time. When individual leaders succumb to the control of the controllers they too become as one of them. The term "owl(s)" is therefore used both individually and collectively. Even when dealing with screen memories or archetypes, the owl is associated with an evil that extends esoterically into other dimensions and bears direct reference to the "gods" and ETs.

Screen Memories

In her book, (3) The Custodians, the author, hypnotist and UFO researcher, Dolores Cannon, writes about the image of the owl present in "screen memories".

"This is the memory of an event or a thing that is not accurate. Something has been superimposed over what is actually occurring, and the mind interprets it differently. Often it is interpreted in a safer and gentler way, so the person will not be frightened or traumatized.....Often these screen memories involve animals.....For some reason owls feature prominently in this phenomenon."

The Custodians, Dolores Cannon.

Cannon details her own memory of an encounter with a huge owl caught in her headlights on a lonely stretch of road. The owl's head was easily seen above the fender. It would not move and then would only move a little down the road to await her approach again. She then states that upon viewing the range of owls in existence in a museum she was shocked to realise that her experience was with none of these and asks herself what it could really have been. Cannon then details a hypnotic regression session with another subject whose memory of an owl turned out to be a screen memory of a being over six foot tall with white flowing hair, large bony hands and totally white eyes without pupils.

Some 26 pages are devoted to this subject's experience which is typical of experiences with ETs of one kind or another. In her books The Custodians and Keepers of the Garden Cannon details, through her hypnotic regression of abductees and others who have had experiences with these ETs, that they are our real rulers and have been involved with us a very long time. Her reporting of her subjects' messages from the ETs is one of benevolence towards mankind as we are not advanced enough to look after ourselves. This supposedly justifies their assistance which includes genetic and other interference.

I have no doubt that the truth is somewhat more sinister. I certainly do not believe the message of benevolence (the reversals reveal otherwise) and it shows that hypnosis is not a reliable means of obtaining truth of this nature. Like all other sources it can be tainted easily.

Bohemian Grove

For the last 128 years world leaders have travelled to a 2700 acre property in Sonoma County California in the month of July. The often strange activities inside have been infiltrated in the past and some of what goes on has been exposed, including ritual involving a forty foot tall stone owl. The latest exposure (latest at time of writing) seems the most thorough to date and it was due to the infiltration of documentary film maker, (4) Alex Jones and his assistant, Mike Hanson.

He says that after evading detection several times, he witnessed a bizarre ceremony after the sun went down. Jones states:

"Then, out of the woods, all of the sudden came thirty priests in black robes, their faces painted up like death, with a man dressed like the Grim Reaper pulling a wagon with a bound body..... The wagon went behind these big black sheets hanging out of the trees, down to the ground, obscuring the view, and for about 10 minutes nothing happened....."

.....Everyone was disoriented as they stared across the water at whatever was happening behind those black curtains with that bound body....."

.....Whether it was an effigy or real, we do not know We were all focused at what was going on across the pond. Suddenly the owl was lit up by some flood lights and out ran a hundred priests or so in black, red and green robes. Most of them were in black, some in red and a couple in silver or green robes.

Then, out came the high priest, who went through all his incantations about the dead (who is dead at the Grove in the past, may their spirits be conjured and brought back there by the "great owl"). He praised the owl for about twenty minutes and he talked about "goodly Tyre and Babylon."

While Alex Jones captured this ritual and other goings on he believes that the stone owl represents Moloch (MOH-lok, MOL-uhk) A Canaanite god who demanded the sacrifice of first-born children. I can tell you that the owl does not represent Moloch for his symbol is the Bull. So, who or what is represented by the owl for here is a direct connection between world leaders, world affairs and the owl?

In some of my reversals "owl" and "Moloch or Molech" (interchangeable) are mentioned in the same breath. Strictly, "Moloch" is a metaphor for god. I have had reversals where a champion racehorse, for example, is referred to as "our moloch" To avoid confusion, the true Creator embodying unconditional love is referred to as "The One".

God and Goddess

In order to understand what the owl really represents we need to understand some occult symbolism. The Hebrew word asherah means grove and a grove in the Bible was a place where shrines were erected.

Asherah is also the Biblical version of Ishtar, the goddess who is later Isis. Before the Hebrews turned to the worship of the male god Yahweh (Jehovah) they worshipped the goddess. The goddess is known by many names throughout time and culture. Her names include, Semiramis, Anat, Asherah, Isis, Juno, Minerva, Diana, Aphrodite and Venus.

Furthermore, like the male god today who is put forth as a trinity, the goddess was also triune. One member of this triunity represented earth, the other represented heaven and the third represented hell. When the goddess was known as Diana, for example, her heavenly counterpart was Luna while Hecate belonged to the nether regions.

Today the goddess is known as Columbia in the United States and Brittania in England. Her symbolism is all around you and is well documented in the books written by author, David Icke.

Bohemian Grove is therefore, none other than the grove of the shrine of Isis, the goddess. Throughout history the goddess is depicted numerous times with her owl/owls. Isis in the Egyptian pantheon is also the symbol for Sirius, a trinary star system about which several authors have written making the connection between Sirius and the Fish People. The female energy attributed to the goddess in the world today speaks of manipulation and control. The owl then specifically represents the female energy of the goddess in terms of manipulation and control of the inhabitants of this planet. It is no wonder that we have world leaders then worshipping this entity. The symbol of the owl is quite fitting in that it has 360 degree vision in the dark and is predatory in nature. It is the entity that gave these rulers power and through which they function and they have, in fact become Satanists. It is the entity that controls them as well, and as one becomes properly aligned with this entity they become as one with it (possessed by it) and therefore are referred to as owls. Therefore, when Condoleeza Rice says, "I'm a owl", she is stating that she is now a host for this entity. Bohemian Grove is where the owls go every year to pay homage to The Owl to whom they also sacrifice their duty of care (their conscience)

Current grovers include G.W. Bush and H.W. Bush and Dick Cheney, Henry Kissinger, previous Presidents and Secretaries of State and Defence, as well as a long list of other politicians, media people, entertainers and corporate heads. A well known photograph taken inside the grove in 1957 shows Richard Nixon and Ronald Reagan sitting at a table listening to Dr. Glen Seaborg, who was involved with discovering plutonium. Seaborg worked on the Manhattan Project which produced the bombs that were dropped on Japan. Much of the discussion and decision making surrounding that project took place within Bohemian Grove. It was many years later that both Nixon and Reagan ascended to the presidency.

This is an elite club for Satanists and many of the decisions affecting the world are made right here. David Icke offers the testimony of Cathy O'Brien, said to have been a mind controlled slave of the elite. She states that the grove has a number of rooms, each related to a perversion of some kind. Icke goes on to talk about the owl but, like Alex Jones, relates it to Moloch (the Canaanite god) - even though he makes the connection between the goddess, Athene and her owl.

Lilith

The representation of the goddess by the owl goes back to the very beginning of this creation of man. There is commentary that links the owl to Lilith, said to have been the first wife of Adam. Lilith is often identified with the owl though she is only mentioned once in the modern Bible:

“Wildcats shall meet with hyenas, goat-demons shall call to each other;
there too Lilith shall repose,
and find a place to rest.
There shall the owl nest and lay and hatch and brood in its shadow.” Isaiah 34:14f NRSV

In the King James Version of the Bible Lilith is translated screech owl. The screech owl translation of the KJV is without precedent, and should be taken together with the "owl" (yan?up, probably a water bird) in 34:11 and the "great owl" (qippoz, properly a snake) of 34:15 It should be noted that species of owl is associated not only with the snake but also with the vampiric “Strix” of Roman legend. Mentions of Lilith are also found in the Talmud and in the higher level commentary, The Zohar as well as other Rabbinical writings. Lilith is referred to both as a goddess and a demon and is represented with the talons of an owl whilst surrounded by owls. Interestingly, that which is translated owl is equated to snake and having blood sucking properties. Lilith is often identified as the snake in the Garden and depictions of her seducing Adam and Eve attribute to her a serpent body with human upper features (ie. Half reptile, half human).

Authors, Janet and Stewart Farrar in their book, (5) The Witch's Goddess state, "Lilith was not her original name, which appears to have been lost. She acquired it by identification with the Sumerian 'night hag' Lilitu. As such, she is the 'screech-owl' or 'night monster' of Isaiah xxiv:14.....So much for the blackening process. Lilith (whatever her own name was), is clearly a concept much older than Eve. Whether she was the First Woman, co-equal with the First Man - or farther back than that, the uncreated Primordial Mother who gave birth to the First Man (or the first Male God) and then mated with him - she was totally unacceptable to emerging Hebrew patriarchalism. So Eve was invented - created by a male God out of Adam's male body, as complete a reversal of the natural order as Zeus's giving birth to Athene by swallowing her pregnant mother, Metis."

Jewish historian, (6) Raphael Patai, goes deeper, "the Talmudic material about Lilith is complemented by much richer data contained in Aramaic incantation texts"

The original tri-unity of the gods of this creation goes back to Anu, Enki and Enlil. Anu ruled the heavens, Enlil the earth and the sea (subterranean world) was ruled by Enki. These gods of darkness, were notorious for their disagreements and wars. These are the gods who created the reality we live in and much will be said about that in coming chapters. These gods (Gen 1:1 "god" – "elohim" plural) are responsible for the world we live in today; the world we are accused of polluting and destroying. Lilith is very much the means by which we became entangled here, as we shall soon see.

The prologue of "Gilgamesh, Enkidu and the Underworld" may contain the predecessor to the tree of knowledge of good and evil. This tree not only contains a crafty serpent, but also Lilith, the legendary first wife of Adam. A huluppu tree is transplanted by Inanna from the banks of the Euphrates to her garden in Uruk, where she finds that:

...a serpent who could not be charmed
made its nest in the roots of the tree,
The Anzu bird set his young in the branches of the tree,
And the dark maid Lilith built her home in the trunk. (Wolkstein and Kramer 1983: p. 8)

Here, Lilith is seen as one aspect of the triunity, the other two being the serpent and the Anzu bird, which some scholars recognize as the mythologized version of the American Eagle Owl. This is the earliest mention of Lilith and it is found in the Sumerian version of creation, the Christian Bible account being almost a copy.

Lilith is the one originally responsible for the creation of this mirror world. The following is an excerpt from a (7) Jewish folktale that describes some of the evils attributed to Lilith:

"The wife brought the mirror and all of the fine furnishings in the cellar to her own home and proudly displayed it. She hung the mirror in the room of their daughter, who was a dark-haired coquette. The girl glanced at herself in the mirror all the time, and in this way she was drawn into Lilith's web.... For that mirror had hung in the the den of demons, and a daughter of Lilith had made her home there. And when the mirror was taken from the haunted house, the demoness came with it. For every mirror is a gateway to the Other World and leads directly to Lilith's cave. That is the cave Lilith went to when she abandoned Adam and the Garden of Eden for all time, the cave where she sported with her demon lovers. From these unions multitudes of demons were born, who flocked from that cave and infiltrated the world. And when they want to return, they simply enter the nearest mirror. That is why it is said that Lilith makes her home in every mirror..."

"Now the daughter of Lilith who made her home in that mirror watched every movement of the girl who posed before it. She bided her time and one day she slipped out of the mirror and took possession of the girl, entering through her eyes. In this way she took control of her, stirring her desire at will.... So it happened that this young girl, driven by the evil wishes of Lilith's daughter, ran around with young men who lived in the same neighborhood."

Manipulation and Control

(8) "The challenge we all face is to balance male and female energies and so enjoy the best aspects of them and not the extremes. The Satanists, however, seek to express only the extremes, thus creating disharmony and conflict. They use the malevolent highly negative expressions of the female energy (covert manipulation behind the scenes) to create events and circumstances which the extremes of the male energy (macho men, soldiers, terrorism) can play out in the public arena. Because of this it appears that the world is controlled and dominated by male energy – it's a 'man's world', but in truth it is not a world dominated by the male, it is a world dominated by extremes of male and female."

The male energy is also represented by the Egyptian god Osiris (Aser), the god of life and death and judgement of the dead in the afterlife. He is also the agency through whom is attributed the granting of all life and the earth as we know it. (Sound familiar?) He is the oldest son of the Earth god, Geb and the sky goddess, Nut and is depicted with green skin wearing a white crown. Osiris is connected to the star system of Orion. The male energy speaks of conflict. While Columbia is a female national personification of America, the male is Uncle Sam. The British female personification is Britannia and the male is John Bull. This planet is ruled by forces that maintain control (masculine energy) through manipulation (feminine energy) of all our affairs.

Our world leaders are in themselves not really leaders. They are no more than manipulated puppets and if they were not able to be manipulated they would not be allowed to occupy these elevated positions in the first place. On another level many of our world leaders are in fact inter-dimensional entities wearing human form. In their desire to rise to the top and wield power human leaders have sold their soul along the way. We may further speculate that their manipulators are either the heads of large corporations or very rich individuals or groups. But if we stop short with the identification of only human entities then the argument about the problems of human leadership only centres around human failures and weaknesses.

Some conspiracy theorists have spent a lot of time focusing on the ruling families such as the Rothchilds and the Rockefellers, big money and agendas of power and control. Time and again we are given a long thesis on the origin of the Illuminati and their goals for mankind. Unless we look beyond this, the true controllers will remain invisible (which is essential to their maintaining power) and we will not understand what is really going on right under our noses every day. David Icke's treatise on the protection of ruling bloodlines is excellent. This protection of bloodline and their DNA has enabled these dark ET entities to maintain human form throughout the ages.

We were told that the reason the USA invaded Iraq was to seek and destroy the WMD's (Weapons of Mass Destruction) they were alleged to have. Many of us thought ourselves clever in deducing that the ulterior motive related to oil, but the real reasons were neither of the above. This you will understand further as you read the following chapters.

Whenever we endeavour to look beyond human leadership and try to focus on the possible powers behind it we tend to mostly jump to a religious base of understanding (hardly spiritual). We justify the struggle on earth at present by presenting the Biblical perspective of the ongoing struggle between good and evil; a struggle that it is said goes on within each of us. We identify some abstract devil, or Satan as the tempter, and even more abstract God as the one who is willing to answer our prayers in order to help us overcome Satan's tempting. We recognise the struggle within ourselves and blame ourselves as well as others for failures. Yet, the idea that good and evil exists within everyone is false. We either belong to the Light or the dark side although those belonging to the Light suffer temptation and battle with the dark side.

On a heightened level of awareness our perception changes. We may even become aware of the extreme levels of masculine and feminine energies operating behind the major events of our day and recognise that the manipulation and conflicts within ourselves and surrounding us have a source beyond ourselves and the human faces we see. We recognise that those who invisibly rule over us stand behind the people we vote into power. What happens in our personal lives specifically holds some of us down while others belonging to the Dark Side are given advantage. These rulers have managed to remain hidden and at the most have only held mythology status within our thinking, yet their names have been forever whispered down the deepest corridors of secret societies by the power brokers of this world. This planet currently belongs to others and we are their prisoners. Not even Jesus challenged the devil's ownership of this world. That point is accepted by Christians yet when it is brought down to the real terms these same people with hard-set belief systems would most likely be the first to reject this information. How blind we are. When our emotional ties are to our families and our salaries, our possessions and our plans and we have struggled so hard for everything we really don't want to know such spooky details.

Owl Symbolism

(9) "Owl's medicine includes seeing behind masks, silent and swift movement, keen sight, messenger of secrets and omens, shape-shifting, link between the dark, unseen world and the world of light, comfort with shadow self, moon power, freedom."

"Owl (Cailleach, Oidhche, Comachag): These birds were most often associated with the Crone aspect of the Goddess. The word "cailleach" in the Scottish-Gaelic means "owl". The owl is often a guide to and through the Underworld, a creature of keen sight in darkness, and a silent and swift hunter."

Shamans and witches are often described as possessing the power of the owl. The horned owl is particularly a symbol of evil, a representation of which is the clenched fist with extended forefinger and little finger, a demonic sign of the owl's power. The call of the owl has been considered as inviting death. The scientific name for owl is "Athene Noctua" linking to the goddess Athena who carried an owl on her shoulder (on her blind side) Athenian coins carried the likeness of Athena on one side and an owl on the other. These coins were aptly called "owls".

Therefore it is with some wonderment that we discover those in power worshipping a forty foot tall owl, yet it goes further than that. The owl symbolism is found embedded in the dollar bill and the planning of Washington, D.C. The symbols have been under our noses all the time for the ruling elite take pride in rubbing our noses in what is a known fact to them. The truth that some are awakening to it is so amazing that it requires progressive adjustment by those considering it closely for the first time, yet it is within the realms of possibility. Most would like to remain in denial that this is happening. Millions go to church every week in the knowledge that a satanic entity exists, though they just have never considered how he really operates, who he really is or where he really came from.

Chapter Six

“THE NET” - *Imprisonment

*"99.9999% of what affects our reality will be undetectable by our senses.
Man must learn to think for himself, rather than follow blindly what he has been taught."*

- Buckminster Fuller

"You're born in the dark and you will die in the dark"
(The dictum behind the owl according to Dr Rev Peter Keegan)

Most people, when asked to describe a prison, would most likely discuss being behind bars or in some kind of compound. Maybe we could further expand the thought by comparing some institutions or workplaces or even the wrong relationship with people, to a prison on various levels, emotional or otherwise. If, however, someone were to come along and tell us that we have been born inside a prison and we will die there too then we would more than likely object in a variety of ways if we took it seriously at all. Perhaps some of us might agree philosophically.

If one has no material worries in this life and business is going well then life is seen as a challenge, the rewards of which are well deserved and earned. There is no thought that one may be advantaged by some outside force and another repressed by that same force. I think that people who are awake or great enemies of the dark side are held down and I am not the only one who thinks this way.(1)

When we are feeling low, then maybe one more message divulging the secret of how creative we are will raise our spirits again so that we may achieve our goals for the week, the month and the year in order to maintain the illusion that the individual is in control of his or her life. Yet, the hard workers of this world are now working harder than ever in an effort to derive more enjoyment out of life. Too often, it seems that despite ones best efforts to succeed, one finds little other than pain. How many of us consider to stop and ask ourselves, “How much of my life is manipulated by whom and how? The truth is that most of us are kept so busy that we have little time to meditate on ourselves in order to obtain those answers.

What I have heard in reverse about the “NET” leaves me in no doubt about the manipulation and control exercised over the human race. I have since been increasingly aware of the extent it enters my own life. Nobody is exempt. We are all connected to it and none of us can escape it presently except in special circumstances. Such identification of manipulation and control of individuals may also give us a clue as to the manipulator’s purpose here and indeed, what our own roles are in this jig-saw puzzle.

What I have learned about the “NET” can be summarised thus:

- (a) Mars is the point of origin.
- (b) It is a field of unusual nature, preventing escape by those whom it encloses and very possibly it is used to program the masses within it.
- (c) Within the “NET” is a created Virtual Reality which we live in daily.
- (d) Without the “NET” we would be able to see the Universe as it really is.
- (e) It takes a lot of energy to maintain its presence.
- (f) Passing bodies do affect it and can damage it. A sufficiently large body can even destroy it if it came close enough.
- (g) It is becoming more difficult to maintain at present. I have heard, “they ulcer the net” for example referring to space debris or meteors.
- (h) ‘Chemtrails’ are partly associated with its maintenance.
- (i) Positive focused thought may even create a hole in it.
- (j) It will be destroyed by an incoming body and at the same time the Virtual Reality we now live in will be revealed. People will not be ready for this sudden change for they will be able to see things as they really are quite suddenly.
- (k) The manipulators of mankind would like to set fire to the “NET” as the last of them depart this planet very physically. If the “NET” were destroyed in this manner the air would become very foul and poisonous, killing many.

Of course, by now most people would say that this all makes good science fiction. My wife even got me to consider writing this all as fiction in that it would do better on the shelves as a seller. However, I am a researcher and as such I can only report what I have discovered. This material is so different to what most people think on a daily basis that I was loath initially to commit my own thoughts to print. Yet, how can a researcher declare results except to report that which was found? In the end only a very small part of me wishes that it were all science fiction for the knowledge I have gained also includes the promise of liberation from what now exists.

Also, all this information falls into the area of “conspiracy theory” and nobody today really wants to be labelled a “conspiracy theorist”. After all, it is so “unscientific”. Some would immediately think that this is evidence of mental instability. The words, “conspiracy theory” seldom fail to evoke reaction amongst the present day community. To be tagged thus would equate to being relegated to the lunatic fringe in the minds of many individuals. Have you ever wondered why this tag creates such ‘recoil’ within some people? To be labelled a “conspiracy theorist” today is to silently dismiss the idea that anything ever occurs in secret.

How many remember the 'Manhattan Project' that saw the development of the atomic bomb? This was a secret to US Congress for over two years yet incurred a cost of over two billion dollars. Not only that, it also became the model for future military development ever since. In a political climate such as exists at present, most things are done in secret, as they are in large Corporations, bureaucracies and in "special interest" groups all over the world. 'Conspiracies' are a way of life. Indeed, some of the most powerful intelligence agencies in the USA were established in secrecy and were unknown by the public or Congress for many years.

From its inception the CIA has been involved in many "business" activities that produce huge sums of cash. The connections of this organization to global organized crime, (narcotics) have been documented by many for years. Do you believe for a moment that the CIA is subject to the civilian oversight that is supposed to exist, the President being the military commander-in-chief? Maybe you need to be reminded of President Eisenhower who in the 50s effectively lost control of the U.S. nuclear arsenal due to the independence of the intelligence agencies at the time. It was a situation that deteriorated so badly during his last two years in office that he asked repeatedly for an audience with the head of Strategic Air Command to learn what America's plan for nuclear retaliation was. In his final year in office, 1960, what he learned frightened him. The plan included the obliteration of half of the Northern Hemisphere. Would you be one who would step forward to tell me that such matters are dealt with more openly today?

Yes, I subscribe to conspiracies, many, varied and often sounding extreme but I reckon you had better open your mind if you want to know the truth about your current purpose for existence here. What I have discovered is also about to overtake all of us not just the underprivileged masses. I often listen to talk-back radio and I am regularly appalled by what I hear. Callers often ring in for their "pat on the back" as they vocalise the popular line on a matter. Any dissent expressed about a matter is limited within borders well recognized by the listeners and if a 'rogue' caller rings in to speak about what may be conspiratorial in nature, he or she is put in their place not only by the program host but also by the other conditioned "drains" out there who have not had an original thought in years and who are hell bent on remaining in denial.

People who are asleep only talk about their dreams. They are often on a program of maintaining their positive nature through food diet, exercise and listening to the latest motivation tape. They think work results, holidays, investments, the next car or social engagement and how they can increase their status in this suffering world. The idea that they might be materialistic or selfish in attitude is offensive, to say the least for they work hard for what they earn and this 'entitles' one, especially if they donate to charity occasionally. After all, everyone has the same opportunities?? The idea that they are out of touch with reality is something to laugh at, if it ever arises, for this seems the acceptable successful course for the few privileged enough to be able to engage in it. Yet, this stance is in gross denial of the reality that exists here at present and what needs to be the urgent response to it. A suggestion that they might be doing what they have been programmed to do is met with the answer that everything is their own planning. I certainly do not condemn having material goods, but I do want to focus upon the stupor within which all thought processes travel.

Simple examples in hypnosis should awaken us to how the mind can be manipulated by the hypnotist. On one occasion a subject was told the suggestion that upon awaking he would not be able to see a particular person in the room. Upon the subject being awakened he in fact could see this person as the suggestion went contrary to his belief system. However, when hypnotised and it was suggested that a particular person had left the room and would not be there when the subject was awoken, the subject failed to see this person when awake even though he was still present in the room. Why? Because this time the suggestion complied with the belief system of the subject. Likewise, when a watch was produced and placed behind this person (who was supposedly absent, therefore invisible to the subject) the subject could see and describe the watch though there was a very real person in front of it. These experiments showed to what degree the human mind can be manipulated and what power it does possess. Our reality is constantly being shaped and altered by those who know how to achieve this.

Do you not realize that those whose interest lies in your manipulation use every means possible of achieving their targeted results in you? Do you think that the television is merely for your entertainment or that there aren't advanced electronic means of placing inside your head what you end up believing are your own thoughts? Have you ever considered that you might be hypnotised at this very moment?

Many people hold to the idea that the world we live in was created by an unconditionally loving god and that we bear his image in some way. An objective meditation of the idea may produce some unsure results. Trying to reconcile the idea of a predatory food chain to a loving god may be difficult, for instance, however if the god who created the food chain was also a predator it would be understandable. Would it not? My purpose here is not to offend, but to get you to question. It is quite okay if you disagree.

The "owl/snake" is a predator group. They are the gods, the nephilim and annunaki of the Bible, the snake that spoke in Genesis and the sons of god that joined themselves to the human females mentioned in Chapter 6 of the same book. It is why the Old Testament is filled with a blood lust whether it is the endless sacrifice of animals on the alter of Moses' Tabernacle or the endless slaughter of humanity at the command of that god calling himself in the Bible, "Jehovah". Is he not also known for the creation of that same humanity? He calls himself jealous, angry, a god of vengeance and so on while he often says categorically that he does not change. After reading the Old Testament accounts does it not amaze you that people will still describe this god as unconditionally loving to your face? They will dismiss his actions prior to the appearance of Jesus because of what Jesus did. That is the whole excuse for Jehovah now being perceived as an unconditionally loving god. In the next breath they will turn around and tell you that millions are going to an eternal hellfire if they don't believe this diatribe.

Of course, what we firmly believe about our spiritual self goes to the heart of each of us for we are spirit and we need to resolve the issue of why we are here now and why the human race is operating on a level of consciousness far below its true nature. It is natural for a drowning man to clutch at straws in an attempt to resolve his predicament and many of us have been through the same experience with the need to clutch at doctrines. Furthermore, I used to teach what I now condemn. There were many years of adjustment, I assure you. It is time for all of us to be brave in facing the real answers.

The Neurophone

Dr. Patrick Flanagan is the inventor of the “neurophone”. This device enables deaf people to hear by means of a different transmission of sound through skin and bone. However, Flanagan had to fight in the courts for years in order to keep his invention publicly available. The government wanted this discovery classified. The neurophone is an amazing device consisting of a small black box and two contacts made of a specially crystallised metal. When both contacts are placed in moist contact with the skin one can hear whatever is transmitted, either pink noise generated by the apparatus itself or any sound originating in any other medium (recorder, radio etc) that is plugged into the black box. The sound can be heard inside the head rather than through the ears. When I first witnessed a demonstration of the neurophone I was amazed by a side issue. Even though another person was using the device and there was no sound whatsoever emanating from it I could tune into what the other person was hearing. Once I had tuned into the sound I could travel quite a distance away into other rooms and still hear it. Some refer to this occurrence as “electronic telepathy”. “Neuro” is the Greek word for “nerve”. It is more correct to say that the emanating signal is apprehended by ones nervous system and if I can tune my nervous system, utilizing my thought, to yours, I can hear what you hear while listening through the neurophone.

When Dr. Flanagan demonstrated the neurophone to the military for applications in their sphere, the first group he talked to showed relative disinterest so before he encountered the second group he made some modifications to the room. The wiring to the two contacts was extended and run around the perimeter of the room and suggestions were played through the device while his audience was seated listening to him. There was a favourable response on this occasion as the audience had been manipulated sub-consciously. I was told that the device had been used in Vietnam to issue inaudible orders to soldiers. Also it has been used by the U.S. Navy in training and communicating with dolphins. How simple is it to manipulate a crowd? How much more advanced means must in fact exist to program a population while it sleeps and to what degree? Who is really behind terrorism?

MK-ULTRA

On 13th April 1953 the super-secret project MK-ULTRA was born. Only those in the top echelon of the CIA were privy to it. This was an umbrella project with 149 sub projects with a foray through different avenues but for one ultimate purpose; discovering effective techniques of mind control. It became a major goal to create individuals who could be used as couriers, spies and yes, even car bombers all without the knowledge they were being used. Richard Helms, Director of the CIA destroyed all MK-ULTRA records before leaving office in 1973 so we will never know exactly what took place. Some documents were misfiled, fortunately, coming to light in the late 1970s and lawsuits followed. A cynical CIA was laid bare.

The “NET” is responsible for the virtual reality in which we live and that makes other forms of manipulation and mind control possible.

Manipulation + Control = Conflict

Manipulation, control and conflict are the strategies (energies) that govern the planet and each one of us twenty-four hours a day.

Would it be so difficult to believe that we live in a virtual reality? It is not difficult for me to believe it; I have been a lucid dreamer throughout my life. I have regularly become conscious within my dreams and when I did so I would make myself as aware as possible. Everything within those dreams seemed as solid as my daily surroundings, furthermore, I could fly. If I were to zoom into the sky sometime during my waking daily routine, the experience would be no different to what I experience in one of my lucid dreams, feeling the air rushing by and spying on those below, who usually didn't know I was there. The dream was under my control to a large extent as I could explore as I chose, often testing the solid nature of all that surrounded me, yet I was aware that I was really asleep in my bed and that soon I would be yanked out of the dreamscape created by my own mind. Each of these dreams has carried meaning for my waking life.

Ever since I was a young boy I was convinced that this life was but a dream and I often said so. Nothing has changed in that respect at my current age of 56 years. I simply understand it a lot better. It was a shock for me to awaken from my religious thinking but it was inevitable. I am a person who persistently asks questions and demands answers, wherever it may lead. My mind has had to enlarge its ability to take in new thoughts and ideas quite often, no matter what their nature triggered within me at the first instance, for I knew that when I got to the bottom of a matter that initially seemed ludicrous, I would discover a truth that I was able to accept.

The idea that we are living in a virtual reality may initially be unacceptable to you for whatever reason, yet if you are searching for answers, you are bound to find more extreme thinking, such as that of the Jewish kabbalist who believes that consciousness is the only thing that really exists. I tend to agree, but in order to arrive at that agreement I journeyed through lengthy process.

The idea that this virtual reality is also our prison will strain the borders of most reader's thinking, yet there will be some who are at the point of instant agreement, due to their own intuitive processes or experiences. This prison is nevertheless real yet the gods of darkness have done such a good hatchet job on our consciousness that up until now it remained undiscovered by the ordinary masses. Anyone who seriously and habitually practises RS will eventually strike "the net" in their audio.

References in reverse, such as:

"earth seal the net"
"ulcer the net"
"wash the net"
"strain their net"
"dig up net"
"snare, fry net"
"digress to the net papa"
"oiling the net, I light, whoosh, initiate"
"no theory this net ma, burn em on, how could you"

habitually fall into a context of a magnetic grid around this planet. The primary function of this grid is to aid in the manipulation and control of those within. Furthermore, I have discovered in these reversals that the origin of the "NET" is none other than the planet Mars. We are therefore all under its influence as the NET completely surrounds the Earth and the moon.

Each one of us has been manipulated and controlled for eons, maybe through many physical incarnations. Each time one is born here the programming continues, restarting afresh for that lifetime; firstly through the program already present in ones parents, then in ones surroundings, then with ones input through various sources. Our experiences differ, however and for a very good reason. There is profit in these differences for the gods of darkness. After all, why take so much trouble to enslave consciousness unless there is a profitable motive? This is why there are many religions and philosophies. Those of us who can innately testify to essentially being a spirit first and foremost have been given many choices in the physical world to explore our true nature. The philosophies and religions I have ambled through in my studies all contained wonderful loving truth which had been corrupted in some way, leaving each ideology standing on feet of clay, ultimately. For what is the reason all these many and varied ideologies? The only answer: Conflict.

Throughout history war has been waged due of conflicting ideals which nevertheless exhibit love in their basic belief structure. So how can love become hate? Yet it seems to, all the time. The Dark Side has been shrewd in their seduction and we have been in a spiritual stupor all this time. Conflict is also part of our daily regime. Consider the altercations you experience in the family, workplace and to a lesser extent in social gatherings. The people around you can bring you disagreement on a daily basis. Each time you experience conflict it is for a higher purpose that benefits the Dark Side. That purpose is the harvesting of your energy. Is there anyone in your life who habitually raises conflicts with you and you feel depleted of energy after the exchange? This is the ultimate purpose of the NET for without that energy exchange the Dark Side cannot survive. That is why we are in this prison. With those imprisoned being manipulated and controlled in their daily affairs, both individually and corporately, there is the assurance of ongoing conflict and energy exchange so that they can continue being who they are: the dark gods.

When you analyse the movies you see, the television you watch, the news you listen to and the conditioned behaviour you exhibit to people and issues that arise, you start to catch sight of the automaton you have become. You say you have freedom of choice? I say you are only free to choose your manner of enslavement and that only to a degree. You studied to become a teacher, doctor, physicist, lawyer or whatever. Now look as you have to abide by the rules that are externally imposed, from the time you get up to the way you have been conditioned to think. How much creative originality is left within you now? You don't even know what creative originality is in order to answer. Step outside the square and you don't get paid, do you? You are a slave to time, government and in fact to all those around you in some way or other. Being you has been lost somewhere along the way and we have in fact long ago forgotten who we really are as we offer daily subservience to governments we detest and systems that are corrupt, whether they are religious or business-like in nature. The world we live in is one of waste, pollution and dirty energies and one where very few are awake enough to do their own thinking and to follow their own original thoughts, for that inevitably takes them off the well beaten track.

We continue to look outwardly as we measure our steps in this existence. We look for something called "success". Why a spiritual being, already a part of the One, would even be concerned with anything more than they are already, could be a mystery if it weren't for the conditioning. Of course this tends to be measured in stranger ways like the grand manor you live in or the car you drive or your work status and the associations you have. 'Tis strange indeed when one finally awakens and discovers what the real issues are.

Don't blame yourself for all of this. It is not your fault. No it isn't. If you were given real freedom I doubt you would make many of the choices you make or behave as you do once you were awake enough to realise the truth of the situation. It is not in your spiritual nature, for then you would consciously know "The One". You are what you are because of your programming and all the stimuli that trigger you although your government would like you to believe that you are to blame for climate change because of carbon emissions for which you are responsible. After all, guilty and fearful people are easy to rule, so the nightly news will keep you aware of the latest terror strike and threat while the government adds one more draconian law to its arsenal so it can keep the “outlaws” in check. Of course this does not refer to you, does it? Even so, you are responsible for your own heart. Nobody, be they god or man can steal it if you do not surrender it first. We are waking fast, for with each new choice and decision in the direction of greater awareness comes a greater understanding and dedication for more of the same. The crack in the mirror grows larger and soon we will be stepping outside to face what is truly real. As for the gods of darkness....they will be no more.

Obviously, much more can be said about this subject but the purpose of this manuscript is to give you an overview, one that not only validates the amazing discovery of reversed speech but one which also puts you in the current picture of the strange world we live in, where RS is the very crack in the mirror that contains the entire reversed state of ones consciousness.

“Our impulses are being redirected. We are living in an artificially induced state of consciousness that resembles sleep.....They have created a repressive society and we are their unwitting accomplices.....Their intention to rule rests with the annihilation of consciousness. We have been lulled into a trance.....they are safe as long as they are not discovered” from the movie “They Live”
